

ISACA Launches New Web Site Features to Help Members Stay Competitive and Stand Out

Rolling Meadows, IL, USA (9 April 2009)—In this difficult economy, professionals rely on their association memberships for valuable benefits more than ever. As part of its response to the global economy, ISACA, a nonprofit association serving more than 86,000 IT governance professionals worldwide, has launched five new member services to help members succeed in challenging times:

- Members receive COBIT Quickstart free and 75 percent off the subscription to COBIT Online.
- ISACA and third-party books, videos and other resources are available on demand in a customized, fully searchable, web-based environment powered by Books24x7.
- The ISACA Career Centre will include more jobs and more robust tools for job seekers, including a job board for freelancers who can post freelance/contract positions free of charge.
- Ensure Success for Your Enterprise, a new employer handout, is a quick summary of the top five reasons to invest in employees' ISACA memberships and certifications.
- A new, free table of continuing professional education (CPE) opportunities lists 52 free CPE units available from ISACA for certified members.

These features are available for members in a new section of the ISACA web site called Stay Competitive—Stand Out, which can be accessed at www.isaca.org/standout.

“ISACA knows that today’s volatile economic climate places tremendous demands on enterprises and the individuals they employ. For that reason, the association is offering these added benefits to help members and their organizations gain the competitive advantage they need to survive—and thrive,” said Lynn Lawton, international president of ISACA.

Additional information on ISACA membership and member benefits, including discounts on ISACA certification exams and conferences, is available at www.isaca.org/membership.
